Suky Denies Plans To Force Beanies On UK Freshmen

No Intention Of Hazing Says Letter To Kernel

By RONNIE BUTLER

Denials of proposing to have freshmen wear beanies for two semesters were sent to the Kernel this week by Beth Gallivan, corresponding secretary of Suky, student pep organization.

At the last meeting of SGA, on May 11, John Faulkner, president of Suky, told Assembly members that plans were being made to revive the custom of having freshmen wear beanies.

Faulkner explained that freshmen would be required to wear beanies for year, in order "to distinguish freshmen from upperclass men and to promote school spirit." In addition to this, he said, freshmen would be required to sit in the card section during all football games.

"Do Not Intend To Punish" Our suggestion that freshmen wear beanies," the letter read, "was not made either with the intention of punishing (or hazing) the freshmen for being freshmen, or for the purpose of compelling them to buy beanies for our own profit."

"Furthermore," is continued, "we do not intend to force any freshmen to wear the beanie. We do intend to make them available, and that is all. The choice of buying or not buying a beany is left to the individual."

At the Assembly meeting, Faulkner said that plans for some kind of punishment for not wearing them were being formulated by Suky, and that they would be presented at the next meeting of SGA. Faulkner also told a Kernel reporter that buying beanies would be required, if A. D. Kirwan, dean of men, and Bernie Shively, athletic director, agreed.

"Thrown Quite Alone" Freshmen often have," the letter said, "the feeling of being thrown, quite alone, into a bewildering new world. The wearing of a beany could give them a common denominator of identification as a group."

Faulkner's reply to the question of whether veterans and other older students entering the University as freshmen should be required to wear beanies was:

"We've found that some of the older students just don't want to cooperate."

"Would Feel As A Group" The letter from Suky explained that the use of caps would be one method of making the freshmen feel that they are a group, since UK does not recognize any class as a unit, such as a freshmen class, sophomore class, etc.

"The Suky Circle regrets that there has been some misunderstanding about the request it made to SGA last week concerning the possibility of introducing, for a second time, the custom of wearing freshmen beanies for the first few weeks of the fall semester," it said.

'Green Pen' Sale To Begin Monday

The "Green Pen," freshman theme publication, will go on sale Monday in the Campus Book Store, John A. Glover announced this week.

Price of the pamphlet will be 10 cents.

History Society Initiates Twelve

Phi Alpha Theta, history honorary society, initiated 12 student members at a dinner Monday night at the Student Union. William H. Townsend, a local attorney, spoke to the group about Gen. Cassius M. Clay.

The new initiates include David Wells, Tom Ramage, Janice Vandenberg, Sally Hill, Martha McKinney, Judith Griffin, Monroe Billington, Judith Fauquier, Dean W. Lambert, Mrs. Preston Johnston, and James Colson.

Townsend told of the experiences of Clay while the general was editor of the "True American," the first emancipationist newspaper published south of the Mason-Dixon line. Clay served later as President Lincoln's minister to Russia.

Clay Fights Described Clay's fights with Bowie knives and pistols were described by Townsend, and he read a news story of Clay's marriage at the age of 84 to Dora Richardson, a 15-year-old girl.

The speaker read a report from the sheriff of Madison County to the county judge about a "posse comitatus," which described a visit of the posse to Clay's home, the general's reception of the group with cannon shot and the posse's hasty return to Richmond.

Preceding the dinner, Townsend was made an honorary member of the society. Holman Hamilton, a graduate student, presided at the ceremonies and the dinner.

Jesse Tapp To Speak At Luncheon

Jesse W. Tapp, one of the University's most distinguished alumni and one of the nation's best known agricultural economists, will be the principal speaker at the annual commencement luncheon for graduating seniors, June 5.

Tickets for the luncheon, scheduled for 12:30 p.m. (CST) in the Student Union, are now on sale. They can be purchased in the Office of Information in the Administration Building, the Social Director's Office in the Student Union, or from the deans of the various colleges.

Originally the commencement luncheon was intended for the seniors, their parents, relatives, friends, and for the alumni, chairman of the Commencement committee Hamilton Tapp announced this week.

"It is hoped that a large number of graduating seniors will attend," he said.

Tapp, a native of Corydon, received a B.S. degree in Agriculture from UK in 1920. He received his M.S. degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1922 and did graduate study at Harvard from 1924 to 1926.

He has been president, director, and chairman of numerous governmental agencies, and has been associated with various agricultural corporations. At present, he is vice president of the Bank of America in San Francisco.

Thomas Presents Mezzo-Soprano Recital Tonight

The music department will present Jo Ann Thomas, mezzo-soprano, in a vocal recital tonight at 8 p.m. CDT in Memorial Hall.

The recital will be given in partial fulfillment of the requirements for a Bachelor of Music degree in Applied Music and is the first vocal recital given at the University under this degree.

Miss Thomas has appeared as soloist with the University Chorus, chorists, and the Women's Glee Club. She has also had title roles in the operas presented at the University during the past two summers.

Viola Kiviniemi will accompany Jo Anne. Several numbers on the program will be performed with flute obligatos played by Edwin Stein and David Schneider.

The program will include three selections by the modern Finnish composer, Yrjo Kilpinen, which will be performed for the first time in this country.

The program will include "Et exultavit spiritus meus," "Sheep may safely graze," and "Far beyond all other pleasures," by J. S. Bach.

The second section of the program will begin with Johannes Brahms' "Botschaft," and "Nachtigall," followed by Yrjo Kilpinen's "Tyton Lauhu," "Lemmen Lauhu," and "Prologi."

Part three will consist of "The Mustard Seed," by Fred Hines, followed by examples of Howard Swanson's works, "The Negro Speaks of Rivers," "The Junk Man," and "Joy."

The concluding portion of the program will include "C'est l'extase langoureuse," "Chevaux De Bois," and "La Chevelure," by Claude Debussy; and Psalm 137 by Ernest Bloch.

UK Barbershop Cited For Posting Prices

By JEAN GRANT

If the Kentucky State Board of Barber and Beautician Examiners has its way, UK may not have a barbershop.

The board cited the University and Frank D. Peterson, University comptroller, to "appear for trial on June 1, 1953, for the very serious offense of posting prices."

Peterson wrote a letter to Attorney General J. D. Buckman, Jr., asking him to advise and if there was such a law, what action should he take on behalf of the University.

"We question whether or not there is a law against letting the customers know the prices. The barber would have to tell the customer the prices in the barbershop when the job is over; we see no difference in telling them before they get them in the chair than telling them afterward," the letter said.

In an interview with a Kernel reporter Thursday morning, Peterson said that the "price list hasn't been posted in the barbershop since March."

"The barbershop is for the convenience of the students and does not attempt to make a profit," he said.

Lexington barbers recently raised the price for a haircut to $1. The University continued to charge 65 cents. Then most of the Lexington barbers cut their price to 75 cents.

The barbers complained that if the University did not provide the barbershop facilities, students would be forced to pay $1 for a haircut.

The sign, Peterson said, was placed on the wall inside of the shop to let students know what prices they are to pay, since they come from all over the state and other states and are used to higher prices.

Peterson stated that he had not yet received a letter from the Attorney General. However, the Louisville Courier-Journal in an Associ-

UK Trustees Issue Bonds For Housing

UK's fraternity row came a step nearer to reality last Friday when University trustees awarded a $710,000 issue of UK dormitory revenue bonds to a group of Lexington and Louisville investment firms.

The loan for the six houses planned will cost the University an average of 3.4534 per cent interest a year.

Five fraternities, Sigma Chi, Kappa Sigma, Lambda Chi Alpha, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Phi Sigma Kappa, have already agreed to participate in the fraternity row plan.

The Cosmopolitan Club, an organization of foreign and American students, has expressed an interest in the sixth house. Each house is designed to accommodate 48 men.

A local construction firm last month was awarded the contract for construction of the six small

Senior Engineers To Present Skits

Senior engineering students will present skits satirizing their professors and accentuating their characteristics at the General Engineering Assembly at 10 a.m. Thursday in Memorial Hall.

Glenn Mills, chairman of the Engineering Student Council said that this traditional program is always presented "the day after senior grades are in."

At the end of the program the juniors will move down to the seniors' seats at the front and center of the auditorium, and the sophomores will move over to the junior section.

The freshmen then move over to the sophomore seats and their seats are left vacant for next year's freshmen.

Faculty Committee Attempts To Remedy Parking Problem

As a result of numerous complaints from students about the parking problem on campus, definite steps are being taken in an attempt to alleviate the situation. SGA has been unsuccessful in its effort to find a solution, and now a faculty committee has been organized to investigate the problem and to make recommendations.

Dean M. M. White appointed a committee of five, headed by Dr. Joseph R. Schwendeman of the Geography Department, to make a thorough study. Recently three students were added to the committee. The group has spent over a month delving into the problem, hoping to find some solution to pass on to the Administration and SGA.

An hourly check for nine days was made on the cars parked in the permit areas. The committee drew a detailed chart noting the number of parked cars having permits, infractions in the parking areas, and the number of tickets issued to violators. All these statistics were turned into percentages so that a typical parking situation might be studied.

As a result, the committee reports that of the 672 cars observed one morning in Parking Area 9, 71 per cent were legitimate. The remaining parked cars either had no permits or had been issued permits for other areas.

In addition, on the basis of an hour's observation, the committee noted that 15 per cent of the parking space in that area was unused. This figure, however, is not too representative of area parking in general since the check was made at a time when the demand is not so heavy. At any rate, something like 155 more permits than there are parking spaces are issued each semester in order to keep these spaces filled.

At present, the physically disabled or handicapped hold preference when parking permits are issued; faculty and staff are considered next; hardship cases come third; and commuters are fourth.

As a result of the study, which is still underway, the committee recommended that the city appoint policemen to handle the traffic, largely composed of school children, at the two traffic lights just off the University grounds. Consequently, the campus policemen, who've been unable to supervise the parking areas adequately, will have more time to cope with the parking violators.

The committee has also drawn up a questionnaire to be filled out by the students, a copy of which is printed in this week's Kernel. Other copies will be distributed in the classes.

SGA, in an investigation last semester, contacted city officials in an attempt to make parking legal in front of Memorial Coliseum, on both sides of Harrison Street, and diagonal parking on South Limestone Street. But they were told that none of the suggestions were plausible.

One unrestricted parking lot which appears to be overlooked by students is located on Rose Street behind the Agriculture Experiment Station. Other than that, there doesn't seem to be any additional space near the University which could be converted for parking purposes.

The committee expects to make a full report and recommendations the last of this month to Dean White which will be turned over to the Administration and SGA for approval. Should the recommendations be accepted, no action will be taken until next fall.

One encouraging sign . . . since the study was begun, Dean White reports that there have been fewer students coming to his office complaining about lack of parking space.

Letter To The Editor

Suky 'Amends' Beany Proposal

Dear Editor:

The Suky Circle regrets that there has been some misunderstanding about the request it made to the SGA last week concerning the possibility of introducing, for a second time, the custom of wearing freshman beanies for the first few weeks of the fall semester.

Our suggestion that freshmen wear beanies was not made either with the intention of punishing (or hazing) the freshmen for being freshmen, or for the purpose of compelling them to buy beanies for our own profit.

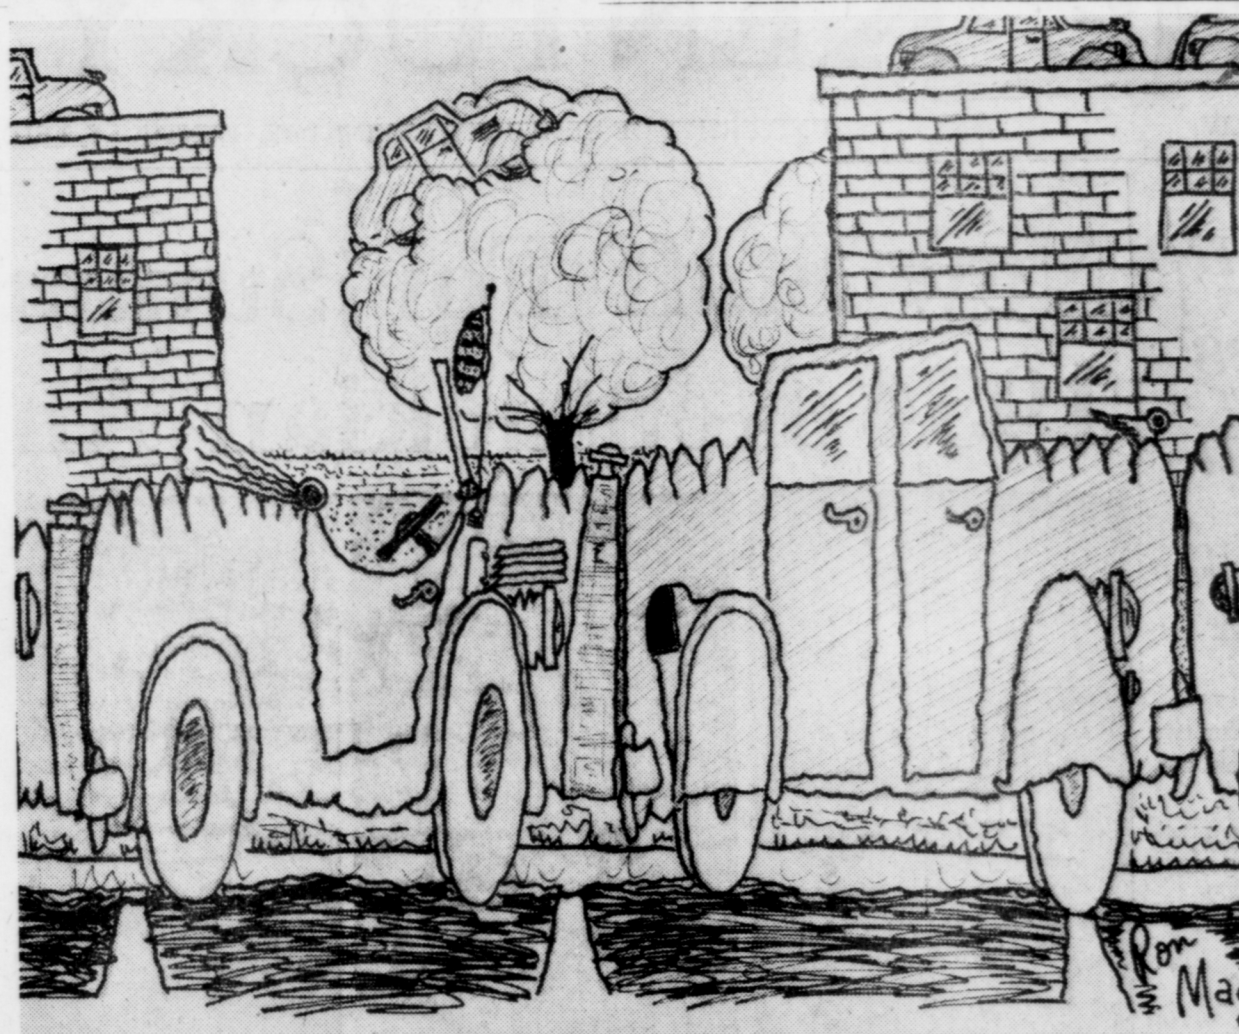

The Circle believes that the use of the caps would be one way of making the freshmen feel that they are a group, since the University does not recognize any class as a unit, such as the freshman class, the sophomore class, etc. Only a few months before coming to the University, the majority of the freshmen were members of a highly organized group known as the senior class.

Most of us remember how our senior classes made trips, gave a play, had a class will; we thought of ourselves as, and enjoyed being, members of a closely knit group. We realize that the University represents a great change from high school days. Freshmen often have the feeling of being thrown, quite alone, into a bewildering new world. The wearing of a beany could give them a common denominator of identification as a group.

Furthermore, we do not intend to force any freshmen to wear the beany. We do intend to make them available, and that is all. The choice of buying a beany is left to the individual.

We hope that this letter clarifies the intention with which the Suky Circle purposes the use of a freshman beany.

Parking Has Become A Problem . . .

Psychology Has Weird Effect Upon Sensitive UK Student

By DON YOUNG, JR.

You can't trust anyone anymore.

It used to be when anyone said something nice to me, I would get all glowy inside, like that person, and speak a sincere "thank you." Now—all because of psychology—I don't even know if I like myself.

Now everything has a double meaning. I am reminded of the story of the two psychologists walking toward each other on the street. As they pass, one tipped his hat to the other and said "good morning." After the hat-tipper had gone by, the other looked into his mind mused to himself, "Hm, I wonder what he meant by that?"

Things like that can warp a guy's thinking. Suppose someone, a college student, pays a compliment to another. Is that person REALLY being sincere, or is he saying, "Ah. Here is a great chance to endear myself to Dale Carnegie."

I confess, I am completely in the dark. I can't tell when complimenters are true well-wishers, or practitioners of the "evil art." That is the evil art of "buttering up."

I was walking to the psychology annex and saw a buddy across the way. Not wanting to be obvious, I ducked under a parked car, trying to avoid him. He crawled in beside me and commented "did you notice how queer Dr. Bigquirk acted in class today? Gee, he's really an odd duck, huh?"

By then I was warming up to the subject (the car engine was idling) so I told him straight, "yeah; bye now." As I crawled away he gave me a quick smile. Since I knew he was type 103, as described by the psychology department, this worried me. Did that smile mean—there were two possibilities—he was suppressing a desire to bite little holes in my new sport shirt, or did it mean he was repressing an emotional conflict within himself to write his name in the fresh cement in front of the Anthropology building?

I sighed. "Oh well, I guess I'll never know. Unless, of course, I see 'Dilbert Dimbulb' written in the cement tomorrow. As I trudged on to class, I looked nervously around me. Of course it was too late then.

Cords And Discords

Definition of "college," according to the Michigan State Normal News: "Institutions which sometimes lower entrance requirements with an end in view—not to mention promising tackles and backs."

A Texas paper claims it has "found" the ideal professor. He is: one who can laugh with his class, a guy who has a sense of humor and uses it in the classroom; a well-prepared lecturer who thoroughly knows his subject; a friendly, enthusiastic person who is really interested in his class and who is aware that ideas contrary to his own may be just as sound; one who does not use the curve system of grading, but rather rated each individual on effort as well as achievement; a young man.

Five commandments for freshmen, as imagined by the student newspaper, are being circulated at

Coming up the walk was the answer to a hungry psychologist's prayer. "Hello 'Dreamy,'" I said, "how is your pet bat getting along?" "Dreamy" Nyte gurgled up to me and answered, "Oh, she's fine. But I've got some news for you."

"Oh joy," I said.

I tried, but she managed to hook her arm through a small hole in my shirt, and hung with me as I ran. So I listened.

"I had the craziest dream about you last night," she warbled on. "It was just like for real."

I winched mentally. Here was a poor, crazy mixed up kid; just an innocent screwball.

She continued. "There we were. Just you and me; you in white tie and tails and me all in white."

I immediately applied symbolism to this, and came up with the answer. She thought of me as the brother-type, and wanted to go swimming with me (her bathing suit, I knew, was white.) The tie and tails were obviously meant to portray a fish market. "It's kind of easy, this psychology stuff," I said half aloud.

"Dreamy" was still rambling on through yards and yards of verbs, and I was captivated by her. She held me in her spell. That, and her armlock. She rattled on, apropos of nothing, "I've got a license—in my dream—and I got a saliva test, too. We were going to leave for a vacation in three weeks. What does it all mean, Honeybucket?"

I smiled at her condescendingly, and patted her on her matted head. I had this psychology down pat, now. I couldn't be tripped up. Letting her know what her dream meant was a cinch. I told her the dream meant, naturally, "You want to go fishing, and since vacation is coming up in three weeks, that's the best time. SEE?" She returned with "what about the saliva test, my little pumpkin-head?" "Easy," I smiled back. "That's a holdover from when you ran at Keeneland."

She nodded and handed me back my books, as we had arrived at class, and went to her seat.

I felt good. "Huh. This psychology stuff is easy," I murmured. Just then the Professor arrived on his pogo stick, and we settled down to his lecture.

Columnist Offers Her Suggestions For Idle Minutes

By KATHY FRYER

As another public service to Kernel readers, the Frying Pan will attempt to catalog the things you can get done in the 10 minutes between classes.

If your next class is just down the hall you can:

1. Talk to the professor about the grade he gave you, if neither of you is long winded.
2. Do last minute work on your next class.
3. Read the morning paper.
4. Stop and talk to someone from your hometown you haven't seen since high school graduation.
5. Make a telephone call.
6. Smoke a cigarette.
7. Get your mail (if you're in McVey).

If your next class is a little ways (as we say in Kentucky) over the campus, you can:

1. Get a coke.
 2. Give someone a message.
 3. Look for the fountain pen you lost the period before.
 4. Check a book out of the library if you don't have to search for it.
 5. Turn in a term paper.
- If your next class is on the far side of the campus you can:

1. Do nothing but walk fast.

When you see a strange girl at a dance or party, how do you know whether she's a UK girl you haven't met before or an import from one of the local high schools?

WANTED: A mirror in the book store for the seniors trying on their robes.

FOUND: One rare three-hour course: no tests, no finals, no notes—just one term paper.

Seniors in a department where comprehensives are required get it coming and going. If they pass their comprehensives and flunk their finals they don't graduate; if they pass their finals and flunk their comprehensives they don't graduate. You can't win.

Nearly all writers get around to the college theme sooner or later. If it isn't misinforming movie writers who picture us all as rah-rah beauty queens and slap happy characters in con skin coats, it's the Mary Worth cartoonist and his nauseatingly distorted picture of sorority life.

Occasionally you find someone who writes college stuff that real college students will read. The most popular one around here seems to be Max Shulman and his "Barefoot Boy With Cheek." The head librarian says she can't keep it in the browsing room stock. It's straight satire with just a dash of truthfulness.

The most true-to-life thing along this line I've seen is the collection of "Little Man On Campus" cartoons. My favorite one showed him at a counter where the saleslady was saying something like, "If you pay 6.95 for this book and write your name in it once, don't get it dirty or scar it, you can have 1.50 for it at the end of the semester."

Sad Story Of The Week: One UK student has three straight final exams on the last day of the exam week—me.

Besides trying to figure out the five page mimeographed directions for graduation procedure and protocol, seniors have to pay a graduation fee which amounts to about $20 for graduate students. As one of them put it, "You not only pay to get in, you pay to get out."

OPTOMETRY IN THREE YEARS, IF YOU HAVE SIXTY L. A. CREDITS

In three college years, you can prepare for the attractive profession of optometry, if you have a minimum of sixty required Liberal Arts credits.

There is a shortage of optometrists in many States. Eighty per cent of the Nation's millions depend upon the Doctor of Optometry and his professional skill in conserving vision.

The optometrist possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders a service essential to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice. Optometry is specially attractive to women.

The U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometry students the same consideration accorded medical students.

Chicago College of Optometry, nationally accredited, is located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is famous for its eye clinic. A building program is in progress. Dormitory accommodations, apartments and other facilities are available on a large campus.

For catalog and other literature, address Registrar, Chicago College of Optometry, 2303 No. Clark St., Chicago 14, Ill.

Eds And Coeds Make Big Plans For Last Fling Before Exams

By ANN O'ROARK

If you can't talk you can't do anything.

But conversation is only half of the battle, the other half is listening—read what one great man wrote about it...

"Conversation is but a carving, give no more to every guest than he is able to digest, give him always the prime, but a little at a time, carve to all but just enough, let them neither starve nor stuff, and that you may have your due, let your neighbor carve for you."

Next time there is a banquet or dinner, the above will give you something to think about.

But in the meantime there is a big weekend ahead—and it may be the last fling for the year, unless there are many people who are all ready to take their exams without any more studying.

Sigma Nu's Plan Dance
Tonight, sounds of music, laughter, and lots of fun will issue from the back yard of the Sigma Nu house (if it doesn't rain, of course). The Sigma Nu Spring Formal will begin at 8 p.m. on the dot, with Dave Parry to get things under the musical way.

There will be open house and a buffet dinner before the dance for the Sigma Nu members, their guests and dates. If it rains, look for the dance at Joyland.

The Lexington Country Club will be decked with the huge white cross of Sigma Chi tonight for the SX Sweetheart formal. Gene Hessler and his orchestra will provide the music and the dance will get underway at 8 p.m. The highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the 1953 Sigma Chi Sweetheart.

Early Sunday morning several of the women's residence halls will be wide awake. The Juniors are giving a breakfast in honor of the Seniors at 8 a.m. The program is to be a surprise for the girls who are about to go out into the big wide world.

KA's Schedule River Party
4 p.m. tomorrow the KA's are planning to embark on a river party to Clifton. Armed with straw hats and banjos, the AZD's will depart on a hayride to Sleepy Hollow at 1 p.m. tomorrow.

The boys from Farm House are planning to investigate nature in the Spring at Clifton. They will leave on their outing at 1 p.m.

Defying it to rain any more (how could it?), the ATO's will invade the beach tomorrow about 2 p.m. Another brave group, in hopes of getting one good day in at the river, the Phi Sig's will leave for Clifton at 3 p.m. Sunday.

If Aquascutum didn't exist, it would have to be invented. For where else can a gentleman find such masculine elegance in rainwear? Where else can he find the famed British flair for rugged wear? DZ's To Honor Seniors

Sunday morning the Delta Zeta's will have a party in honor of their graduating seniors. The FKA's have scheduled a trip to the river for Saturday. These people are very optimistic. A few are not though, because the ZBT's aren't taking any chances. They have decided to be independent and are having a house party. The rain can't get them. The doors will open at 8 p.m. and anyone looking for shelter will find it there.

President and Mrs. Herman L. Donovan will hold a reception for all graduates following the Baccalaureate Services on Sunday, May 31, at Maxwell Place. Further information will appear in next week's Kernel.

It looks like the books will sort of monopolize most of the time from here on out. Many people have been wondering just who invented exams. If the inventor is anywhere in the near vicinity, he had better hide.

Exams Are Tedious
Exams are a tedious experience, but there are always such things everywhere. Take Easter-oll, milk of magnesia, and spinach—but the unanimous vote would give exams the top rank in such matters by an overwhelming majority.

It all goes to show that you have to believe in happiness or happiness never comes. So if we keep believing that some one will abolish exams, it just might happen.

For those who will be leaving our great University in two weeks, a word to remember for the future: Be like an old tree, and die at the top.

In answer to many questions, it is time to wear cotton clothes, but the weather just doesn't realize it. So wear a pretty print dress, put on your snow boots, get out your fur coat and carry an umbrella and you won't go wrong.

There's A Place To Relax, Study In Reading Room

By LOUIS DEROSSETT

Would you like to read an interesting magazine called "Pedagogical Seminary"? Or a fascinating little number entitled "Bird Chatter"?

If so you will find these, as well as 2,628 other pamphlets and magazines in the periodical reading room of the Margaret I. King Library.

For some reason this part of the library always seems to have its full share of students, even without mid-semester tests coming up. 'Could be the pretty coeds who work there part time. Or maybe it's because of the picture magazines.

Some students drop by every day or so just to catch up on the home-town news. On the shelves are 159 different newspapers ranging from large daily publications to small country weeklies.

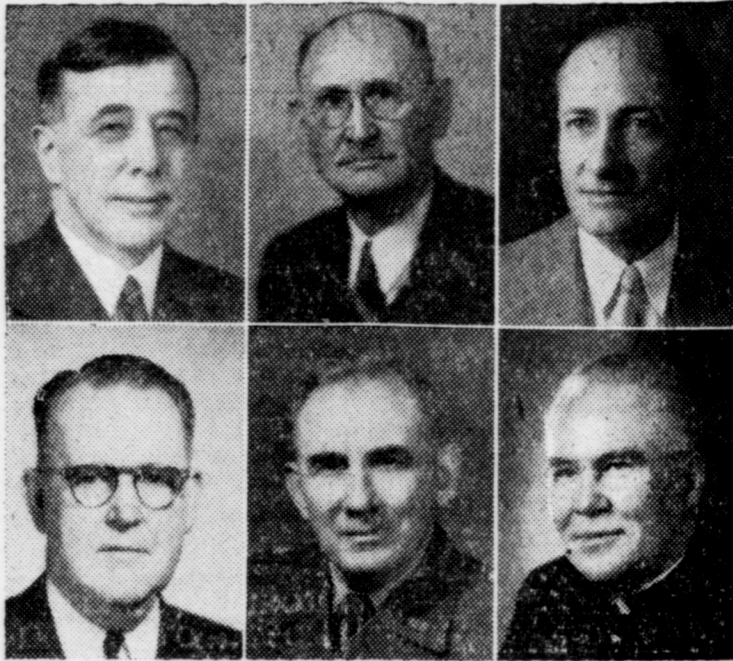

The periodical reading room is also where students in foreign languages may practice reading foreign literature. Magazines may be found on the shelves which provide reading material in French, German, Spanish, Italian, Russian, Swedish, Dutch, Japanese and other languages.

Popular magazines are available, as well as many area and specialized publications. Ranging all the way from "Minnesota History" and "Military Affairs" to "Canadian Journal of Medical Science," every type of magazine published in the United States can be found represented. It's up to the student at his own convenience to visit the periodical room to browse, study or just pass away the time.

The judge was horror stricken. He gazed at the prisoner with all the contempt in the world in his eyes. "Do you mean to tell me," he asked, "that you murdered that poor old woman for a paltry three dollars?"

The prisoner shrugged his shoulders. "Well, judge, you know how it is. Three bucks here and three bucks there—it soon mounts up."

'Blues' Nudge 'Whites', 7-0 In Intersquad Football Tilt

By DICK PURKINS

An offside penalty and a fumble in the final 48 seconds enabled the Blues to defeat the Whites 7-0 in the annual spring intersquad football tilt at Stoll Field last Friday night.

A crowd of about 5,000 people, preferring football to boxing, watched Coach Eral Allen's White team, completely out played in the first half, come back strong in the last two quarters only to be halted each time by fumbles and bad breaks.

With one minute of play remaining the Whites were camped on the Blue two-yard stripe with a second down coming up. But they were thwarted again as an offside penalty set them back to the seven. On the following play, Halfback Bob Phillips drove to the two, but fumbled. The ball rolled into the end zone and the Blues recovered.

The only score of the contest came late in the initial period when Quarterback Bob Hardy sneaked over from one yard out to end a 67-yard march.

Steve Meilinger, the one man stampede, put the Blues in scoring position when he raced 31 yards to the White's 29-yard line. Fullback Ralph Paolone slashed four yards. Meilinger plunged for three, and Hardy bit off seven more to make it first down on the 15.

Big Steve made another first down as he slashed 11 yards to the White four-yard stripe. From there it took three plays to score. Hardy sneaked for one, pitched out to Max Mason for two yards and then barged over for the TD.

Meilinger then switched to quarterback and pitched out to Mason, who raced over for the extra point.

It was a hard-earned victory for the Blues who 'out-first-downed' the Whites in the first half 10-1, and outgained them 154-15 in yardage but the White team reversed the action after intermission and came back strong.

In the third period the Whites reached the Blue 15-yard line only to be stopped by a fumble.

But, with about five minutes to go, the White team began moving, with Quarterback Dick Rushing at the helm. Rushing and Halfback Tom Fillion began picking up about five yards a try through large holes in the Blue line. The drive carried them from their own 33 to the Blue 18 with two minutes left. Fillion smashed to the 15 and Rushing spun to the seven and one minute remained on the clock. Rushing bulled to the two and then came the penalty and fumble. Meilinger, on quarterback sneaks, used up the final few seconds.

Showalter Injured

Two injuries marred the contest, the most serious being suffered by referee, John Will (Beef) Showalter, who suffered a dislocated knee. Showalter was caught in the middle of an attempted quick play by the Whites as time was running out late in the game. He was taken from the field on a stretcher and to the Good Samaritan Hospital, where the knee was put in a cast.

The other injury was to starting White Quarterback Dick Shatto, who was badly shaken up in the second half.

Meilinger led in the ground-gaining department with 68 yards in 14 carries. His main support came from Max Mason who romped for 40 yards in 10 tries. Dick Rushing picked up 50 yards and Fillion got 43 yards out of 10 runs.

The Cats, all one unit, completed their spring training the first part of this week. This was very unusual, since the Blue-White Game has always before brought spring drills to a close. However, due to the new rule of 20 practice sessions in a 30 day period, the Cats had a few days left which had been called off because of inclement weather.

The statistics:

	Whites	Blues
First Downs	11	13
Rushing Yardage	123	204
Passing Yardage	15	19
Passes Attempted	6	8
Passes Completed	1	3
Passes Intercepted (by)	0	0
Punts	8	7
Punting Average	39	37
Fumbles Lost	4	2
Yards Penalized	15	65
Score by Periods:
Blues	7	0 0 0-7
Whites	0	0 0 0-0

Scoring: Touchdown—Hardy.

Point after touchdown—Mason (run).

Netters Down Xavier, Berea

The Kentucky tennis squad had one game rained out last week with Fort Knox, a game which was finally cancelled from the schedule and defeated Berea 7-2 to bring the season's record to four victories against seven defeats, last Monday on the Coliseum Courts.

The squad captured all but one singles and one doubles contest to cop the win. Monty Price and George Perry were the leaders in the win as they each copied their singles matches and combined to win their doubles match against B. A. Grubbs and Lynn Claybrook.

They won their second in a row Wednesday as they downed the Muskies from Xavier, 6-3 for the second time this year. The last match was won 7-2. No individual results were available at press time.

The netters will close out the season with Centre tomorrow morning at 1 p.m. on the Coliseum courts. The last meeting of these two clubs brought a 5-2 win. The Colonels are led by ace Dave Epling.

Summary:

Singles

Monty Price (K) defeated B. A. Grubbs (B) 6-4, 6-2; George Perry (K) defeated Lyn Claybrook (B) 6-2, 6-2; Ed Rodman (K) defeated Nanchongwoong Wong (B) 6-3, 7-5; Dan Chandler (K) defeated Bill Hasty (B) 6-0, 6-0; Glen Dorroh (K) defeated Sammy Hung (B) 6-2, 6-3; Norm Mirbach (B) defeated Joe Taylor (K) 6-4, 6-4.

Doubles

Price and George Carey (K) defeated Grubbs and Claybrook (B) 6-2, 6-1; Hung and Wong (B) defeated Ted Phillips and Chandler (K) 6-1, 6-3; Rodman and Taylor (K) defeated Hasty and Mirbach (B) 7-5, 6-3.

The 5,500 fans who decided they would rather watch the Blue-White game last Friday night than watch the T-V account of the 2:25 championship fight, saw one of the most interesting intersquad games in the past few years.

The Blues won the tilt in a thrilling close but the coaches and fans were more interested in how the boys stood up against the new substitution ruling. They appeared to take to the change like the proverbial duck takes to water.

Big Steve Meilinger looked his usual All-American self but some other not-so-familiar players showed their faces. According to most observers and to ourselves, the defensive and offensive line play of Arvon Bivin was little short of sensational. His hulking 197 pounds was a familiar sight in most of the pileups.

The award for the most improved player would go to either Max Mason or Tom Fillion with both showing that they will be hard to shove out of halfback and fullback slots come next September 19.

Mason proved himself capable of playing the non-specialist game as he efficiently handled punting and extra point running chores for the Blues. Jim Mayo also looked good in the booting department.

Over all, the prospects pointed to need for more practice but the desire on the part of most boys was encouraging to all spectators and the coaches. This eliminates the psychological block which was expected with the change in systems. The UK squad stacks up potentially as a title contender in anybody's league.

One problem would seem to arise with the new ban on free substitution. As the rules now stand, it is up to the individual coaches to see that a man who has played in one quarter does not go back in until the next period.

Yet, in a close game or at a critical point in a game, a coach might, without thinking, be enticed into sending in an illegal key man and not be noticed.

It might be that a special observer could be picked for each game to check nothing but substitutions.

Coach Eral Allen seemed to solve the problem the other night when he had his Whites who had been in a quarter, put on a red sleeveless jersey to signify such.

Our weekly orchid this week goes to Larry Jones who became the second man in UK track history to win a first in the SEC tournament. Dave Rogan was the first when he won the mile and half mile in 1936. Jones won the broad jump last Saturday with a jump of 23 feet, 3 3/4 inches.

The unfortunate incident which occurred during the intersquad game last Friday evening when Ref "Beef" Showalter dislocated his knee, couldn't be blamed on anyone.

The accident occurred with about 10 seconds remaining in the first half and the Whites in possession of the ball on the Blue's 35-yard line.

Both teams were playing heads-up ball when the White quarterback called a quick opening play in an attempt to score. Tom Adkins, Blue linebacker, quickly diagnosed the play and went in to stop it but Showalter didn't have time to get out of the way of the tense action. . . . Result, no White TD and one dislocated knee and torn ligaments suffered by Showalter.

Showalter was operated on Tuesday at Good Samaritan Hospital to repair the ligaments. He had previously injured the same knee in a tobacco barn accident a few years ago.

Big Steve Meilinger is coming in for a little publicity on a National scale come early fall.

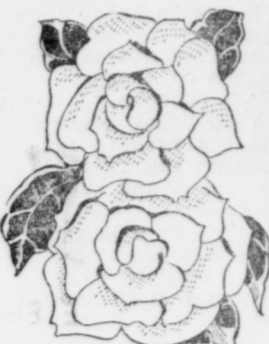

Two national magazines will be here on campus this week to take color action shots of the big workhorse for publication prior to the 1953 football season.

Colliers will send Bill Stapleton while the Saturday Evening Post will have Gus Pasaquerella in town to pose the shots.

The purpose is the annual pre-season All-America squad which is presented each fall by the two magazines.

The rumor is circulating in the Commerce College that one prof over there is so boring that in one of his classes two empty seats got up and walked out.

Cubbin, has announced that plans are now being made for the awarding of trophies for the past year. When these plans are completed all team managers will be notified.

FORE—These men have helped the UK golf squad to one of its most successful seasons in the past few years, finishing with a record of 10 wins, two losses and one tie. They close the season this afternoon when they face a powerful Tennessee squad at Boiling Springs Country Club course. From L-R, they are: Bill Hilton, Ches Riddle, Junior Brewer, John Foster, John Hawkins and Don Smith. Absent when the picture was taken was John Y. Brown. Only Riddle and Brewer are seniors.

UK Golfers Win Three; Face UT Here In Finale

By LARRY CRUMP

The Kentucky golf team will tee off today against Tennessee in their last engagement of the season. The match will be played at Boiling Springs Country Club and get under way at 3 p.m.

In their last meeting, the Vols downed the Cat niblickers, 18-9, to give today's contest a grudge tint. The match will pair John Y. Brown, Don Smith, Ches Riddle and Junior Brewer against such Southern and National golf standouts as Mason Rudolph, Ed Brantly and Carroll Armstrong. Brewer lost to Rudolph in the last meeting of the two teams.

Cats Win Three During Past Week
Individual marksmanship and team play climaxed another successful week for the Kentucky golfers. A triangular meet on Friday last, resulted in a 14-4 triumph over Cincinnati and an 18-0 shut-out over Dayton in the Queens City. Two other teams to fall before the rampaging niblickers were Vanderbilt and Centre by 11-7 and 18-0 scores respectively.

Brewer took time out from his UK golf team long enough to tie for first in the Bourbon Invitational last Sunday with a brilliant comeback on the rain-soaked course in Bardstown.

Brewer had to settle for a tie with Kentucky reigning PGA King, Todd Houck. Brewer shot a 69 on the 18 holes.

Ches Riddle, number two man on the UK squad was fifth in the annual affair.

With victories galore and only the UT meet coming up on the schedule, the linksmen will be even more anxious to win the tilt today. The record now stands at 10 wins, two losses and one tie.

Cats Swamp UC, Dayton

In the triangular meet with Cinncy and Dayton a great improvement was noticed in all scores over the previous few weeks. Brewer fired a 68 for medal honors, and was followed by John Brown and Ches Riddle with a pair of 72's. John Hawkins shot a 75 and Dan Boone pulled his latest score way down to a 78.

Vanderbilt found their way onto the casualty list of Kentucky for the second time this season when they lost out 11-7 on the Boiling Springs course. Brewer kept his record intact by going under par again to card a 70 which under the foul weather conditions was almost phenomenal. Brewer's closest man was John Hawkins who fired a 77 to beat Vandy's Bill Anderson. Ches Riddle downed Joe Richardson with a 78 to 80. The Commodores Joe Estes beat John Foster 3-0 by shooting a 79.

Centre Falls, 18-0, To Cats

Kentucky was too much for the Colonels of Danville of ancient football fame last week when Centre was blanked 18-0 by the Lexington boys. Kentucky won both best balls on the soggy course in winning their eleventh fray. John Brown fired a 75, John Hawkins a 72 and Ches Riddle a 73.

Jones Wins SEC First In Broad Jump

Leaping Larry Jones won first place in the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet, 3 1/4 inches at the SEC track meet in Birmingham, Ala. last weekend.

This feat made Jones the second Wildcat ever to cop a first place in the SEC.

Tulane's Les Kennedy, Jones' chief opponent, took an early lead as he leaped 22 feet, 1 inch in the qualifying events on Friday. Before Jones could get his trial in the meet was stopped because of rain.

After the delay Jones, stumbling in the mud and water, leaped 23 feet. This qualified him for the finals which were held Saturday.

On his first jump in the finals Jones couldn't better the 23 foot mark which had qualified him. Meanwhile, Chafin of Florida had leaped 23 feet, 1/4 inch pushing Jones to third place. This only left two jumps for each of the entrants.

Jones lost his longest leap of the day, 24 feet 3 inches, as he slipped and fouled about two inches, disqualifying the jump.

Jones, still third as he came up for his last jump, was told by Coach Senton to be sure he did not foul. He made certain of this as he left the ground about four inches short of the board.

The jump looked very weak compared to his other efforts. Looking very disappointed he watched the officials as they measured the jump. Everyone was surprised as they announced he had traveled a distance of 23 feet 3 1/4 inches, the winning jump.

The mile relay team finished a strong second in the meet after getting off to a bad start in the first lap.

Curry, who was running the first lap, was held back on the first turn as several men fell and caused him to break his stride and drop back to sixth place.

Adamson second man up, moved from sixth to third. On the pass of the baton to Wallace, third man, they moved to second but lost back to third in the stretch. Again on the pass of the baton they were able to move to second. Rishell, anchor man for the Cats was beaten at the wire by LSU's Adams.

The Cats ran the mile in 3:21.1 which bettered their record of 3:23.1.

The Cat's other points came in the 880 yard run when Captain Jay Wallace hauled down fourth for two points. The aggregate point scoring for Kentucky was 11 points.

Inclement Weather Delays Decathlon

The Student Manager's Decathlon which was supposed to have been held Tuesday and Wednesday, will be held this coming Tuesday and Wednesday according to George Hinds, director.

The track event will determine the champion in all events from the track squad with each member participating in 10 events.

According to Hinds, Dick Shatto, footballer and George Rishell, middle distance man, will wage a battle for first place not counting several others out of the running.

Ramsey Takes UK Hit Crown For 1953

Statistics released by the University Office of Public Relations last week show that Frank Ramsey was the leading hitter for the baseball team for the 1953 season with an average of .320.

Ramsey collected 24 hits in 75 times at bat for the .320 average. He also led the team in RBIs with 13, in hits with 24, and triples with four. Second to Ramsey in the hitting department and the only other Wildcat to hit over .300 was Miles Willard, who gathered 22 hits in 72 trips for an average of .305.

Third in the Cat hitting parade was Harry Jones with 19 for 64 and a .297 average. Willard led the club in homers with three and Bill Evans, who hit .267 was second with two.

The team batting average was .251 with the Cats getting 160 hits in 633 at bats.

In the pitching department, Phil Grawmeyer had the best record, winning two and losing two. The big Louisville lefthander was in nine games, striking out 28 and walking 25. Jess Curry had a 2-3 record and Hugh Coy, the workhorse of the staff, was 2-4 on the year. Coy pitched in the most games, 12, pitched the most innings, 56, gave up the most hits, 48, and struck out the most, 34.

Jim Day was the only other Cat hurler to figure in a decision, his record was 1-2.

Sports Past

History Lesson Made Attractive By Sports

By JOHN NEWLAND

History isn't a very interesting subject to many of us, that is unless the history is concerned with sports. There is something about this national pastime that attracts the interest of everyone.

A course was offered by the University dealing primarily with sports events in the past, and the professor asked you, "What captured the sport's headline on May 22, 1935?", what would your answer be? Let's look back in the old record books and see just what happened on this day in 1935 and other years.

Three race drivers were killed at the Indianapolis Speedway on this day during trial runs for the big 500-mile classic on Memorial Day.

1941

Gus Lesnevich won a 15-round decision from Anton Christofides at Madison Square Garden.

The St. Louis Cardinals increased their lead in the National League to 1 1/2 games as they defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7-6, for the Dodger's sixth straight loss.

1942

The UK baseball team overcame a 4-0 lead to defeat Marshall College 5-4 to close out the season. Jim Mathewson, Wildcat pitcher, helped his team work from under that four run lead by collecting three hits and scoring the winning run.

Ray Lamanno, Cincinnati Reds' catcher, lead the National League in batting with a .381 average.

Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox' outfielder, enlisted in the Navy. (Ted has recently been recalled to service and is now a jet pilot in Korea.)

1944

Henry Armstrong knocked out Aaron Perry in the sixth round of a welterweight bout at Washington, D. C.

1945

The St. Louis Cardinals traded Pitcher Mort Cooper to the Boston Braves for hurler Charley Barrett and cash.

1949

Three home runs and 14 hits weren't enough as the Wildcats bowed to the Tennessee Vols 10-8.

at Stoll Field. Kentucky left 11 base runners stranded in absorbing the defeat. Dominic Fucci maintained his .500 batting average for the year with two singles in four trips to the plate.

Olympia, owned by Fred W. Hooper, scored an impressive six-length win over five other rival horses in the $25,000 Withers Stake at Belmont Park.

Don Nevecombe, making his first start as a Dodger, blanked the Cincinnati Reds 3-0 on five hits.

The 10 Kentucky high school basketball stars, who will meet Indiana's best in Indianapolis June 17, were chosen today by Coach Ed Diddle of Western State College. Among the Kentucky stars was Frank Ramsey, All-State from Madisonville and All-American from Kentucky.

Gridders in disguise carried a large share of the burden for the Kentucky Wildcats in the 1950 baseball season. Those footballers included Benny Zaranka, a varsity end converted to the regular center-fielder; Dom Fucci, backfield man and catcher; Doug Mosley, offensive center and third baseman; and Vito "Babe" Parilli, the Wildcat stellar T-quarterback who covered the short-stop position.

The New York Yankees won their seventh game in a row by defeating the Cleveland Indians 7-2.

Home runs by Virgil Stallcup, Johnny Wyrostek, Grady Hatten, and Danny Litwiler enabled Herman Wehmeir to stagger the distance in the Reds' 10-9 victory over Brooklyn.

1951

Who was admitted to the hospital with a "football knee" but "Ab Kirwin, the UK dean of men who did his gridironing with the Wildcats almost 30 years ago. The surgery, to remove the offending cartilage, was performed by Dr. O. B. Murphy, whose football play at the University fell between Dean Kirwin's years as player and coach.

Leo Durocher, manager of the New York Giants, was fined $100 by National League president, Ford Frick, for allegedly using "violent and abusive language" toward Umpire Lon Warneke.

Guignol's New Play Is 'Love For Love'

to marry Prue to the town gossip, Mr. Tattle.

Jeremy, Valentine's man, foils this scheme with the help of Scandal, one of Valentine's friends. Then it's up to Valentine and Angelica to work things out.

The Restoration play is given in modern dress, with girls costumed in formal and men in tuxes of different colors. Tattle's coat is strawberry pink. Scandal's is a "foppish" blue. Adele Rose Toole made the costumes which Leila Sherman designed. Miss Lolo Robinson was costume adviser.

One difficulty that had to be coped with, Leila Sherman and Choreographer Jimmy Inman report, was the problem of color harmony. They "walked miles all over town" hunting for two shades of pink taffeta for chorus-girl costumes to contrast "artistically" with Guignol's aqua velvet curtains.

Bill Eddy and Claire Wood designed the lavender and black Restoration-style set of Foresight's home with simplicity as their theme. The second set, poverty-stricken Valentin's home, consists of three pieces of shabby furniture against a plain black background. Tickets for the show will be on sale at the Guignol box office from 7 to 8 p.m. on performance nights. Seats will not be reserved. Admission will be 50c.

17 Students Taken In Phi Beta Kappa At Annual Dinner

Seventeen outstanding students were initiated into the UK chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary at the chapter's annual banquet Tuesday night in the Student Union.

Dr. Raymond J. Seeger, assistant director of the National Science Foundation and participant in the first Bikini atomic bomb tests, was the principal speaker at the banquet.

New Phi Beta Kappa members are Oliver Bungardner, Stuart Carpenter, John Davis, Donald R. Fryxell, Jeanne P. Lafferty, Merrill McCord, Patricia Ann Patterson, Ernestine Huston.

Jeanne Hubbard, Martha Milburn, Bob Steilberg, Tom Weide, Gerald Schwendeman, Edward Hill, Penrith Goff, William B. Snyder, and David Nightingale.

Also present at the banquet were those students initiated last fall. They are James T. Bradberry III, Mildred Hart, Paul Holleman, William Howell, Molly McCoult, and James Evans Woodhouse.

An 18th member of the group, David W. Woodhead, has transferred to Vanderbilt University and has been taken into the society there.

Before the banquet Dr. C. A. Anderson, president of the chapter, introduced three UK students who were winners of the chapter's creative writing awards.

UK Barbershop Is Cited For Posting Its Prices

ated Press dispatch Thursday quoted Assistant Attorney General Squire N. Williams, Jr., as saying he wrote the answer to Peterson's letter Wednesday.

Williams said he told Peterson that the board had interpreted State Law as prohibiting the posting of prices in any barbershop.

The section provides that "the board may refuse to issue or renew or may suspend or revoke any license for any of the following causes:

"Advertising by known false means or deceptive statements, or advertising prices and barber services in any form, or in any way suggestive of prices."

Dr. Welch May Be Miss. State Prexy

Frank Welch, dean of the UK College of Agriculture, head of the experimental station and Agriculture extension service, is one of four candidates being considered for the post of President of Mississippi State College.

A Mississippi school sub-committee headed by H. G. Carpenter will interview the four men in Jackson, Miss., Monday.

Dr. Welch is the former head of the Mississippi State College School of Agriculture and director of the experimental station.

'Bud' Guthrie Leaves Kentucky

A. B. Guthrie, instructor in creative writing at UK and Pulitzer Prize-winning author, plans to move to Great Falls, Mont., about July 1.

The author owns a ranch near Great Falls and has spent summers there in recent years. He plans to continue his writing there.

Guthrie came to Kentucky 27 years ago when he got a $20-a-week job as a reporter for the Leader. After three years, he became city editor. In 1947, he resigned as executive editor to devote most of his time to writing novels.

He did most of the writing of "The Big Sky" while on a Nieman Fellowship at Harvard University about seven years ago. The novel has since been made into a movie.

In 1949, Guthrie won the Pulitzer Prize for his book "The Way West." He is now working on another novel about the West.

Family connections, besides wanting to live in the country he is writing about, have prompted the author's move to Montana. His father and his wife's parents live there.

Guthrie did the screen-writing for "Shane," a psychological Western that is now being shown over the nation.

His son, Gertram Guthrie, is a sophomore at the University of Montana. A daughter, Helen, is a student at University High school.

Hundreds Seek Entry To Willow Hall Clinic

By DON YOUNG JR.

He was six and the lady was teaching him to speak.

He drew his mouth into a circle and tried to pronounce an "O". He couldn't. The young woman asked him to try it again. Again the small boy pursed his lips into the unfamiliar shape, and tried to please his teacher with a sound.

Technically speaking, this child was afflicted with a "cleft palate." This means the rear part of the roof of his mouth has a hole in it, permitting direct passage of air into the nasal passage, producing booming sounds when the boy speaks. This makes him seem to be "talking through his nose."

"Willow Hall" has a two-fold purpose" said Dr. C. E. Diehl, director of the University Speech and Hearing Clinic, "one is to give therapy, the other is to train therapists."

Clinic Serves The State

He added "this Psychology Department idea has grown to its present program of a regular year round speech school, a six-week summer clinic, a program available to any college student with a speech defect, and an out patient diagnostic session in which children come from all over Kentucky to have their speech problems analyzed."

At present there are 14 children attending classes at Willow Hall, and each child has a speech defect. These defects range from lack of articulation — the most common problem — to cerebral palsy, with damaged or insufficient palate coming somewhere in between.

Dr. Diehl said that too many Kentuckians haven't heard of this work going on at the University, and therefore are "sometimes misinformed" as to the school's purpose and function.

Bad Speech Habits Corrected

"We teach each child with a defect a new way of speaking. When we first see a child needing speech treatment, he has learned to speak. Our task is to undo old, bad habits of speech, and in their place institute new, proper habits.

"For example, one way to help a child with cleft palate is with surgery. Here the child has new skin grafted into his mouth, closing the passage from the mouth to the nasal cavity. When the surgery has healed, we must teach him to form words differently, shape his mouth differently when speaking, and give him a whole new concept of speech. It is not an easy task."

The waiting list for Willow Hall contains hundreds of names, all hoping for openings in the school. The school has three grades, first to third. Just recently the staff, headed by Dr. Diehl, painted and refurbished the school building. The building is an army-type barrack.

Various Organizations Help

The Lexington Junior League sponsors Willow Hall financially, with such organizations as the Fayette Chapter for Crippled Children, sponsoring the Summer Clinic, and the University and Psychology Department contributing to the total expenses.

When a child has completed the three grades offered at the school, he is referred to another school. In special cases, where the child would not benefit or has an especially difficult problem, the school continues its treatment.

Janitor Mistakes Steam For Smoke

The engine companies and a hook and ladder company answered a fire call to the University of Kentucky Alumni Gymnasium Tuesday afternoon after, firemen said, a janitor mistook steam from a shower for smoke.

They reported that a dense cloud of steam coming up a stairway from a ground-floor shower room misled the janitor.

"Well?" said the girl.

"Well," continued the fellow, shutting off the lights, "I think I'm about to get tragic."

A PROBLEM

No man has ever kissed my lips

Although I'm twenty now.

One never gently held my hand

Or hugged me, I avow.

It's not because my face looks bad,

Nor could you blame my shape.

It's not because I run from men.

I don't try to escape.

Why, then, don't men make dates with me?

This problem does perplex.

The reason is just this, you see.

I'm not the proper sex.

Young girl: "Doctor, I need an operation."

Doctor: "Major?"

Young girl: "No, Second Lieutenant."
